THE POPULAR VOICE

SOUNDING FOR STEPHENS THE MAJORITY RULE.

Mr. Bacon Rallieg a Fow More Supporters, But the Old Commoner is Taken Jard of By the People —The Majority Rule Adonted—Harde-man and Barnes in the Lead.

We print this morning additional returns from the democratic primaries of the Fourth. The returns that came in yesterday do not show the same overwhelming majority for Stephens over the opposition that was shown by those of the day before. But his vote still grows, and there is not the slightest room to apprehend that he will not go into the convention with considerably over two hundred votes, giving all the doubtful votes to the opposition. There was only one county reported | Humphries as delegates to the state convention. on yesterday that we had counted for Stephens in our estimate of 206 votes, that went against him, and that was Jackson. This still leaves a net gain of nine votes on our estimate of 206 votes, from the counties already heard from.

The returns on the "rule" show that there is an overwhelming majority so far in favor of the majority rule. We have given no county to the "majority rule" column where the instructions were not specific and formal. From these it appears that the two-thirds rule is condemned, and that the people have ordered the adoption of the majority rule. We shall know more definitely, however, when we hear from the remaining counties. The race for congressman-at-large is straightening out somewhat, but little can be known definitely of it, until the balloting has actually com-

In the Districts.

We present below specials from the congressional onventions of yesterday, which may foreshadow the result in at least some of the districts, but many of them have not acted yet.

In this district there promises to be a very hot and interesting fight. Judge Buchanan will doubtless be a candidate for a re-election, though Mr. T. F. Smith has carried his own county against him which will handicap him in the race and weaken the effect of his excellent record in the house. Yersons is in the fourth as a candidate, and the fight will probably be between him, Mr. Smith and Judge Buchanan.

The returns from the seven h show that Mr. Judson C Clements will be renominated without oppo-sition and Dr Felton will be given once more the opportunity of taming the mountain cost.

IN THE EIGHTH.

In the eighth district the Hon. Seaborn Reese seems to lead at present. He has carried Hancock, with four votes Elbert with two, and Columbia with two. Washington county instructs for Hon. J. K. Hines, Richmond has instructed for Hon, J. C. C. Black, and Warren for Judge E. H. Pottle. Greeze county has elected delegates, but sent them without instructions. This race will be a very nteresting one. The following special from our correspondent at Americus shows that Judge Crisp is leading General Cook in the race in the third:

Special Dispatch to The Constitution. AMERICUS, July 5 .- Nine counties have selected delegates to the district congressional convention, of which Crisp carries Lee, Webster, Taylor, Telfair, Irwin and Montgomery, with two votes each, and Cook carries Coffee and Wilcox, with two votes each. Dodge divided her delegates, giving each one vote. The result thus far is Crisp 13 and Cook five. The race is being hotly contested at all points. The following counties are still to be heard from: Dooly, Pulaski Macon, Schley, Stewart and Sumter.

IN THE SECOND. In the second district it is probable that Mr H G Turner will be renominated without opposition, no disaffection having shown it primaries of yesterday.

NEWNAN, July 4.—Editors Constitution: R & Burch, A B Calhoun, Tolleson Kirby, U B Wilkinson and F M Brantly were selected as Stephen delegates to the gubernatorial convention by a vote of 95 to 10. All of them are old men and believe in Little Aleck. R S Burch is for W E Smith for congressman-a large and the old state house officers. Wilkinson's first choice for congressman-at large is A R Lawton; second, H R Jackson. Wilkinson and Kirby are both for the old state house officers. Kirby is undecided for congressman-at-large. I have been unable to see either Brantly or Calhoun. The contest between the Hon Hugh Buchanan and Hon F Smith for delegates from this county was spirited and much hard work done on both sides. Delegates were selected who favored Smith. The result is accepted philosophically and the party will now move on in soild phalanx. Delegates to the con-gressional convention are J R McCollum, L R Ray, N

B Glover, F M Arnall, J R Stampe, R W North, R C Moreland and G H Sanders. The two-thirds rule was recommended in al conventions with one dissenting voice.

Special Dispatch to The Constitution. GREENVILLE, July 5 -- At a mass meeting held at this place yesterday, to select delegates to the gubernatorial convention, to be held on the 19th instant the following were selected: H R Harris, Sr, R l Remler, H W Hill and J W Taylor.

GAINESVILLE, July 5 .- The following resolutions were adopted in our primary meeting yesterday: Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting tha the nomination of Hon Alexander H. Stephens would meet the hearty approval of the democratic party of Hall county; and for the offices of secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer and comp-troller general, the present incumbents having shown themselves to be honest, efficient and fath-ful.officers, we recommend that they be renomi-

Resolved further, That while the above named andidates are the choice of this meeting, we advise our delegates to sacrifice all personal preferences and prefudices upon the altar of democratic harmony, and if possible to prevent a reenactment of the scenes of the convention of 1880, which came on near disrupting the democratic party of Georgia.

And as to the rules of the convention the following was passed:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that

The meeting was very large and everything passed off quietly and harmoniously. Our delegation is uninstructed on the congressman-ai-large, but I think Han. Thomas Hardeman is the first heore of a majority of the delegates, DECATUR, July 5.—in pursuance to regular call a large number of democrats of the county assembled at the court house yesterday for the purpose of electing delegates to the gubernatorial and congressional conventions. Before the hour appointed for the meeting, in response to a call, Colonel M. A. andler addressed the meeting earnestly and ably, advocating the nomination of Hon. A. H. Stephens. At the conclusion of his address the meeting was organfzed, with Hon S C Masters as chairman and E M Word, as secretary. The meeting being or ganized, Colonel L J Winn submitted the names o M A Candler, O Winningham, W P Bond and Giles After a spirited debate the resolution was with-

The motion was supported with remarks by Colonels Candler and Winn, and vigorously opposed by Messrs E M Word and C M Hon J B Steward also spoke effectively against the motion. After a desultory debate, this resolution was also withdrawn.

Colonel LJ Winn then moved "that it be the sense of this convention that Hon A H Stephens should be nominated for governor, and that it recommend to our delegates to vote for him and use all honorable means to secure his nomination." Mr C M Candler rose to discuss the resolutions, and said that he earnestly protested Against instructing the delegates for any man. He believed the policy of 'instructing' wrong in principle and dangerous in practice. He then discussed at length Mr. Stephens's record, expressing the opinion that he was now and had ever since the war been an independent. When conventions of the party differed with Mr. S ephens, he always kicked. He says that Colonel Candler opened with an apology for Mr. Stephens's independent record and closed with one. The speaker said that he was an organized democrat and as such was opposed to surrendering the principles of his party, even to secure its success. Mr. E. M. Wood followed on the same line, expressing ably his adoption of the views of Mr. C. M. Candler He thought Mr. Stephens was all things to all men, half flesh half fish. Besides' he was old and had add himself that he was an viscally unable to person the secure its variety to be a supposed to be a surrendering the principles of his party, even to secure its success. le thought Mr. Stephens was all things to all men alf flesh half fish. Besides he was old and had aid himself that he was physically unable to per-orm the duties of his present sposition. Colonel M A Candler replied vigorously and warms y and said that Mr Stephens stood now the peer intellect of any man in the state, and if nom-tach he would be elected, and when elected would the would be elected, and when elected would be governor Georgia ever had. After a sparring and many counter movements, the was taken on instructing the delegate from A H Stephens, which motion was carried vote of 61 to 36. Messrs E M Ward and C M ler won much apphanse for their skillful opport to the resolutions of instruction. There was the state of the content of the state of recedings, but they were at times quite spirited. Resolutions were then unanimously adopted inlorsing all of the present state house ofheers, and also the Hon N J Hammond. The delegates to be congressional convention as unanimously lected are E M Word, C M Candler, 4 R Ragsdale and P B McCurdy. Resolutions looking to the election of an executive committee for be county and appointing a committee of five to ct with the chairman in selecting the members, tere adopted. With this committee is left the disretion of having nominations for representatives a the legislature, and also to provide for the election of delegates to a senatorial convention of this listict.

Dr W C Moore moved that the democrats of De Dr W C Moore moved that the democrats of De Kalb county express their preference for the adoption of the two thirds rule. Mr & A kamspect moved to substitute the majority rule where it two-thirds rule is mentioned. Mr. Ramspeck's metion was carried and a preference expressed for the majority rule. The meeting then adjourned.

So far as I have been able to learn, two of the delegates favor i flon. George T. Barnes for congress man at large; one is for a county man and thother has no decided preference. I think the void the county will possibly be cast a unit for Hor George T. Barnes.

FOR CONGRESSMAN-AT-LARGE, STEPHENS CONGRATULATED.

WASHINGTON, July 5 .- Great interest was felt here in the result of the election of gubernatorial delegates in Georgia. Last night every Georgian was asked frequently what was the news from his state. When the papers announced this morning that Ste-phens had swept the state, many friends called to congratulate him. He went to the house, and was at once surrounded by members, who warmly congratulated him, and expressed the opinion that Georgia had done the best she could. It was an ovation Mr. Stephens seemed to appreciate highly This afternoon he walked up and down the long hall in front of his room, leaning on his servant's arm, and looking better than I have seen him this winter. He will be in fine trim for his inaugura-

THE SCIOTO DISASTER

A Fourth of July Party Battling for Life is the Water-The Lives Lost.

MINGO, JUNCTION, O., July 5.—The steamer Scioto. with 500 passengers, collided with the John Loomis in the middle of the river last night, sinking the Scioto in fifteen feet of water only the pilot house ping visible. The night, sinking the Scioto in fifteen feet of water, only the pilot bouse being visible. The excursionists are arriving. One of the survivors says the Scioto was coming up the river under full head of steam, and when about half a mile from Mingo Junction, the John Loomis was sighted coming down. The pilot of the Scioto whistled for the channel, but owing to a misunderstanding b th boats took the same side, the Loomis striking the Scioto and sinking her in filteen feet water, in three minutes from the time of the colin three minutes from the time of the col lision. The scenes on the Scioto were heart-rending, and the life struggles were frightful to behold. The Loomis was only slightly disabled, and went to work at once to save those on board the Scioto. This task was rendered easier by the bright moonlight, and no doubt many lives were saved from this reason. It is now believed that the first this reason. It is now believed that the first reports were exaggerated and that the loss of life will not exceed twenty persons. Arthur McNull, who lives at Cross Creek, was an eye witness to the whole matter. He was standing in his door immediately opposite where the collision occurred. It was about 8 o'clock. The Loomis, in passing the Island.chute, whistled for the preference of sides, and as near as can be judged it was three minutes before the Scioto answered, and neither of them appeared to sheer off, and almost immediately the collision occurred. General confusion followed, and I saw people jumping from the hurricane deck and all parts of the steamer. The Loomis struck the Scioto forward, for the water flew over the bow of the Scioto. The Scioto sunk almost instantly The Scioto sunk almost instantly, Loomis backed up as soon as possiand the Loomis backed up as soon as pos

The Loomis ran to the Ohio shore and anded her passengers, and then returned to the wreck. The crew and officers of the Loomis then exercised every effort to rescue the unfortunate passengers, and succeeded in landing over 400, making several trips, and continued to work as long as there were any who desired to leave. As soon as I saw the accident, I jumped into my skiff and started When I got there I got five persons within a distance of twenty-five feet; and there were two other skiffs below me picking them up, but I don't know how many they got. They were hallooing, "all over they got. They were hallooing, "all over now," and there appeared to be a great many in the wreck, but it was too dark for me to tell the number. I then took the parties I rescued to the Ohio side, and by that time the Loomis had landed her party and returned to the wreck. I had just come home from work as the boat came past, and couldn't tell how many were on board, but from what parties who had landed told me there was from 650 to 700 on the boat. From the run of the conversation of those who had been landed. I It is impossible to ascertain at this hour the number of persons drowned by the sinking of the excursion steamer, Scioto, after the latter had been in collision with the steam tug John Loomis, near Mingo Junction, Ohio, last night. Captain Thomasen, "Dan," is missing, and a deck hand, name unknown, was drowned from the Scioto. The rest of the crew is safe. The first man taken out of the water was Charles McCoy, watchman. The Lomas struck the Scioto on the port side, ifteen feet from her bow, and made a large pole through which the hull filled rapidly and sank at once. The boat is now lying on the bottom of the river. The water is two feet deep in her cabin. Charles Page, of Marietta Ohio stoker or assistant engineer of the Scioto, said that they started from East Liverpool at 6:30 o'clock in the morning with a large excursion party, who were off for a Fourth of July frolic, and that they went as far down the river as Moundsville, arriving there about 1:30 in the afternoon. After lying there about two hours, we started for home stopping at Wheeling and Martin's ferry. The people hailed as all along the river, but the captain said we had enough on board, and he refused to take any more except at Steubenville, where several came aboard. When we collided with the Loomis, as near as I can judge, from what I heard people saying, we had on board four hundred passengers at least, and possibly five hundred. I was on the watch at the time of the accident, and when the boats whistled for passing I no-ticed that there was something wrong, but thought nothing of it and stepped out on the deck for a second when saw the Loomis right upon us. I rushed back to my engine and obeyed the bell to go back, which was immediately followed by the bell to stop, and then seeing that the boat was sinking, the engineer and I there askiff into the river. I then ran after Mr. Belmont referred to the recognition of my coat. When I got back the skiff was so my coat. When I got back the skiff was so full of fear-stricken people that I knew it would sink, so I jumped into the river and struck out for the west Virginia shore. In the Credit Industriel as allied. His instructions authorized him in that view. Shipherd and Senator Blair had made their joint appearance in the story only at the end of July, which averession of their faces was frightful as the end of July. dren were crying piteously for help, and some of the screams so unnerved me that I could scarcely swim. The current was strong, and I struck out with all my might, and soon got out of sight of the crowd in the water, there being but two boys near me who managed to reach the shore in safety with a little help from me. We swam about a mile altogether and when we reached the shore it was almost impossible for any of us to stand up. As to how many were lost I can form no idea, nor do I know what caused the accident or who

It was taken up this morning and discussed for thirty minutes. In the course of the discussion Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, stated as proof as to the little need of a court house there, that there had been no criminal business there at the last July session of the United States court and put exocited at the last Feb. States court and not enough at the last February session to justify the drawing of jurors, and Mr. Ellis, of Louisiana, replied that that fact spoke well for the virtue and morals of the western district of Louisiana. The motion was adopted by a vote of 113 to 33. Mr. Aldrich, of Iltinois, introduced a bill to repe I the act of 1875, adding 25 per cent to the duty on sugar and molasses. Referred.

The house then, at 12 o'clock, went into committee of the whole, Mr. Page, of California, in the chair, on the naval appropriation bill, the pending question being the amendment offered by Mr. Reed to the paragraph for a burgary of construction, and veamendment offered by Mr. Reed to the paragraph for a bureau of construction and repair. The amendment is to strike out the proviso which limits to $400,000 the amount to be applied to the repair of wooden ships, also to make the clause read so that the expense of such repairs shall not exceed thirty per cent of the estimated cost of a new vessel of the same size and like material. The amendment was adopted. Mr. Atkins of Tennessee. ment was adopted. Mr. Atkins, of Tennessee, moved to reduce the amount for the bureau of construction and repair from $1,750,000 to of construction and repair from $1,750,000 to $1,500,000. The latter sum was the same as the appropriation of last year. The increase was based on the idea of the construction of one or two new vessels, but the reorganization of the navy was a question of too great importance to be discussed and decided in an integrated to the board of advice and surjected to the board of advice was based on the idea of the construction of one or two new vessels, but the reorganization of the navy was a question of too great importance to be discussed and decided in an appropriation bill, and this was a proposition to commence a rebuilding of the navy. Mr. Whitthorne, of Tennessee, made an argument in the same line. This was neither the time nor the occasion to consider deliberately what the character of the future navy shall be employed on shore duty of the navy shall be employed on shore duty against the amendment, and expressed his own opinion in favor of the appropriation of $5,000 000. Mr. Robeson, of New Jersey, also opposed the amendment. Its adoption would be a deciaration that the United States should have no navy to protect its commerce or vindicate its honor. Mr. Atkins expressed the hope that the gentleman would not say that the country had no navy now. Mr. Robeson replied that the report of the naval committee showed it now had no havy at all comparable to the navies of other countries. The present navy navies of other countries. The present navy was of wood, and it required as large a yearly expenditure to keep it in repair as it would o t to commence building a new navy

Mr. Hewitt, of New York-Do you say that we have no iron clads?

Mr. Robeson—There are fourteen iron clads

Mr. Robeson—There are fourteen iron clads but they are not cruising ships.

Mr. Blount, of Georgia, commented on the enormous expenditure which would be necessary to build up a navy that would compare with the navies of the European powers.

Mr. Belmont, of New York, expressed his non-concurrence with the former statement of Mr. Robeson that the presence of the United States ironclad in the port of Callao, would have prevented the dismemberment of Peru. With the diplomatic policy of the state department, a hundred ironclads would not have had that effect. That policy had conhave had that effect. That policy had contrived in the short space of six months not only to gamble away the influence of the United States in South America, but actually to open the way to direct European interfer-ence by giving the color of necessity to that nterference. In this connection, he briefly the action of Evarts, and of Blaine, commenting unfavorably on the latter and expressing a desire for a verdict of the house expressing a desire for a verdict of the house on such stewardship. In concluding his re-marks on the policy of the Evarts's administration, Mr. Belmont said the country had never learned the extent of responsibility, financial or political, which Evarts had so lightly accepted for the United States. His political campaign had not brought neare to South America, nor honor to of the state department as to South America had been comparatively intelligible. After that all logic and consistency vanished. Shipherd's conduct had been xplained on the theo y that he labored under an indefinable hallucination Lunatic he might be, but if so he was a lunatic who had been supported and advised in such a manner that he net with nothing but cordimanner that he met with nothing but cordi-ality and confidence. Referring to the Lan-dreau claim, Mr. Belmont said that that claim, as urged on the 4th of August and the 16th of December, 1881, became a very alarming obstacle in the way of peace between Chili and Peru, and belittled and degraded the position of the United States. In those negotiations the It is impossible to obtain the names of all and degraded the position of the United the missing, but it is well established that the States. In those negotiations the number is not greaten than 20. It is likely American government, instead of being an impartial arbiter, become a speculative operator upon the helplessness of Peru and the fears of Chili. It was not difficult to conceive the circumstances in which a necessity might be created for building a large navy, when the house might be absolutely compelled to make appropriations that would dwarf those in the present bill, but the diplomacy of this government from March to December, 1881, government from March to December, 1881, had gone far enough in the interest of claimants and speculators upon Peruvian territory. This course had prevented the proper and legal aid of the United States from being felt, and from preventing the dismemberment of Peru. He would not say that there was a deliberate purpose to bring things to such a pass. He simply stated and summed up the results of that diplomacy.

Mr. Harris, of Massachusetts, said his own iews and those of the naval committee were views and those of the naval committee were in favor of a substitute to provide for the building of ten new vessels of war, but he yielded to the desite of the appropriation committee, and would only move an amendment to the pending paragraph, which appropriates $1,750,000 to the bureau of construction and repairs. The amendment is that any portion of that sum not required for the purposes specified, may be applied to the work. for the purposes specified, may be applied to the work of the construction of two new cruising vessels of war, the size, armanent and material of which it provides for. Mr. Blount, so Georgia, made a point of order that the amendment provided new legislations. islation, and was not in order on an appropriation bill. After a long discussion on the point of order, the question was submitted to the committee and was overruled. The disthe committee and was overruled. The discussion of the amendment itself was then proceeded with. Mr. Ellis. of Louisiana, declared himself heart and hand with the naval committee in its efforts to reconstruct the navy. It was impossible to say when the necessity for a strong navy would be presented. The navies of England and France were now pointing their guns at the forts of Alexandria in Egypt. The form of bleeding Ireland was again on the dissecting table. There was a strong Irish feeling in this country, and sooner or The form of bleeding Ireland was again on the dissecting table. There was a strong Irish feeling in this country, and sooner or later the Irish question would enter into American politics, and might possibly lead to complications with England. If this country could be insulted by the puerile power of Chili, the insult had been offered, and yet there was not a single American sloop of war to be sent to Valparaiso. The whole American navy could not have stood before one of the Chilian ships of war. The amendment offered by Mr. Akins was rejected, and that offered by Mr. Harris was adopted by a vote of 85 to 67. The paragraph relating to the bureau of steam engineering was then taken up. It appropriates $2,200,000, of which not more than $400,000 was to be applied to the mere repairs of engines and the machinery of wooden ships. It directs the application of one million of the amount to ironclad monitors. Mr. Whitthorne, of to ironclad monitors. Mr. Whitthorne, of Tennessee, commented on Mr. Robeson's statement last week to the effect that during the last five or six years $73,000,000 had been expended on the navy by the democratic party; that during that time not a vessel nor gun had been built. He reminded that gentleman that for twenty months of the time the navy department was under his control; that he left a deficiency of over $7,000,000, and that during all the time the navy department. and that during all the time the navy department was under control of a corrupt republican secretary.

Mr. Hewitt, of New York, moved to strike

Considerable discussion took place over the amendment of what the character of the litture navy shall formed by civil employes, and that no oncer-be. Mr. Harris, of Massachusetts, argued against the amendment, and expressed his own opinion in favor of the appropriation of $5,000 000. Mr. Robeson, of New Jersey, also the order of employment, and that state in the order of employment, and that all other officers who are not at sea shall be put on leave of absence or waiting orders, or on furlough, as the secretary may direct. Mr. Robeson also offered an additional section as an amendment providing that after the vacan-cies in the lower grades of the line and staff corps in the navy and marine corps shall have been filled, nothing in the act shall be con-strued as to prevent the promotion from the appropriate corps and grades of not more than ten of the remaining graduates of the year at the conclusion of their six years course, who may stand highest on the order of perit. Special Correspondence of The Constitution. DAHLONEGA, July 3 .- A new company has purchased twenty-nine lots of land in this county. Over 23 of them belonged to the estate of Major Frank Logan. On some of this land have been discovered very rich gold-bearing quartz leads, west of the Chestatee river, near the old Loudsville ford. This find was made by Joe Clemmons, one of the best prospectors in the county. The company intend to put the water on this property at once. Professor J. J. Singleton is now engaged in locating a survey for a water ditch. The west fork of Chestatee will be tapped at Self's mill shoal, five miles above Porter Springs, and will run near by said springs. Prof. S. says the route is a practical one, but will be fifteen or twenty miles long.

ANOTHER RICH DISCOVERY.

From the Dahlouga, Ga., Mountain Signal.

We were shown some large specimens of ore on last Wednesday, that would assay not less than $500 per ton and the probabilities are that it would yield twice that amount. We were informed by the holders that the vein from which it came is four feet wide, and that every piece of quartz, from wall to wall, shows gold beautifully, and that the gangue has produced as high as one pennyweight to the pan. This discovery is located 6 miles northeast of Dablonega, on the Chestatee river, and is only one of the many which lie payallel to ea-h other, and together with their casings of soft slate, form a lead 100 feet in width. It is estimated that if all the quartz of this belt was brought together that the width would not be less than 20 feec of solid mill ore. Gur informants, who have thoroughly prospected every foot of the belt at this point, say that it is a difficult matter to find anything on the lead that will not pan a good color. Their four feet vein its supposed to be worth $300 per ton on an average.

The Champion Snake Story of This Day or Any Day Georgia Always Abend.

From the West Bowersville, Ga., Register, One day last week while the engine, Nancy Hart and her train, was nearing the junction (Bowersville) hard by the residence of J. A. Bowers, the Engineer John Snow, spied in advance of his train on the railroad track an alarmingly large serpent viz, a bull snake. The engineer (friend Snow) giving the usual stock signal in quite a spirited way—but to his astonishment the monster indicated by his his astonishment the monster indicated by his maneuvering that his intention was to maintain his position in defiance to all that might be said or done. Friend Snow charged his cylinder with an extra amount of motive power and bid Nancy charge. The encounter then immediately ensued. After an extraordinary strife it was seen that the snake betook himself to flight on making a few paces into the self to flight, on making a few paces into the dense forest, he all at once stopped, and in an instant turned himself round. It was seen that the snake was entirely severed into two parts not even a fiber left to connect the sundered parts—with rapid motion he returned to the place of the former strife apparently in search of his rear or to renew the attack. The engineer seeing his resolute return stopped Nancy and addressed his fireman, saying: Newte, victory or death—at which time, Newte being full of courage seized some deadly weapon and dismounted. Then you ought to have been there to have seen the struggle which ensued—which resulted in the complete triumph of Newte, the capture of the snake, and the taking of his life—atter which the train escort, and the crowd of passengers beholding the scene of action and the profusion of blood finally determined to take aboard the scattered remains of the conquered and put the same on exhibition at Bowersville as a monument of the signal triumph. with rapid motion he returned to the

nal triumph.
On arriving at the junction said remains were carefully inspected by a large and attentive crowd of anxious beholders. It was then determined the remains should carefully be admeasured, a committee to determine the length, also a committee to ascertain the size were appointed. The length committee reported, after carefully measuring the sundered parts, that the length was between six and tower feet. The committee on the size, reven feet. The committee on the size, re ported through their chairman, Sam Dennard atthough astonishing as it may seem, yet it is true, he was six inches big. The snake was sundered just above the tail joint.

We look for another very large planting in Brooks country next season, and hope by that time many obstacles and inconveniences new encountered by the conveniences. large planting in Brooks county next season, and hope by that time many obstacles and inconveniences now encountered by the raisers will be overcome. In the first place we want ventilated cars or cars with slatted doors in which to ship melons. Then we want cheap transportation. Then we want buyers who will come here, not to take advantage of the ignorance or necessities of growers, but who will be satisfied with a fair margin on their purchases. As a rule our people would prepurchases. As a rule our people would pre-fer to sell here if they can be dealt with fer to sell here if they can be dealt with fairly, and do not doubt that another season will bring us men who will be more liberat than a majority of those who have been with us the past season. We have had some good men in this busines here—Ben Tucker and others of his stripe, for instance. But as a rule they have been adventurers and skindints, and as a rule have not had means at their command to move the crop. We are lad to note a disposition on the part of some of our merchants to take hold of this matter, and hope they may do so another season. Those who have bought here the present season (notwithstanding some of them had to sell one car load before they could buy another) have made money. We want com-petition in the watermelon business, and another season we'll have it. Melons in south Georgia are now second only to cotton as a source of revenue, and no one can tell into what huge proportions this new industry will be developed by the future.

A Big Black Bear.

From the Butler, Ga., Herald. Mrs. C. Millirons, living about three and a half miles northeast of town, near the saw mill of Messrs. Willis & Dasher, while returning on Fridry afternoon last from the residence of Dr. H. M. Neisler, and when near the saw mill, was most fearfully frightened by the approach of a large wild black bear, which had come on account of the dense undergrowth of the piney woods, within a few feet of this lady before being discovered. Mrs. Millirons immediately ran in the direction of the mill for protection when she again came in contact with this monster beast, which did not seem to be angry but endeavor-ing to make its escape. The screams of the lady brought to her immediate assistance the employes of the mill, and having become exhausted by fright, was carried to her home. All hands of the mill, together with several dogs, chased the bear a considerable distance into the Flint river swamp below Reynolds, when all trail of the beast was lost. Captain When all trail of the beast was loss. Captain J. P. Carson also informs us that this bear, which is a large and ferocious looking animal, has been seen several times recently by hands working upon the river lands, and great destruction is being done to the corn crops, which are now silking and tasseling, by this angular Vigorous plans are now on foot for animal. Vigorous plans are now on foot for its capture, which we hope may prove suc-cessful, however, some farmers tell us that it is a hard matter to get a negro to leave the plantations.

Porcupines on a Tear.

From the Savannah, Ga., Recorder. Four porcupines got on a spree last Sunday in the establishment of Mr. James Gorman, Exchange building, Baltimore, They had Exchange building, Battimore. They had been locked up from Saturday, the intention being to send them soon to Druid Hill park, but the weather proving warmer than the porcupines had been used to, they got a little fretful and released themselves. Freed of their sbackles, they investigated the ice chest, where the mint grows, and interviewed sunwhere the mint grows, and interviewed sun-dry phials in which sweet oil is kept, and floundered around among the thin and delicate drinking glasses, and seemed to have delicate drinking glasses, and seemed to have had a good time generally, to judge by the costly fragments and the admixture of wines, brandy, whisky, sweet oil, etc., with which the place was strewn when it was opened on Monday morning. The straws used for julips and "sich" being on a high shelf, were out of reach, and that probably accounts for the number of quills which the porcupines pulled from each other and left on the floor. It was stated in the exchange building Monday that the porcupines were caught at Tivoli last week, and were presented by Mr. Cutaiar to Mr. Gorman.

Unearthing Indian Bones.

by Mr. Cutaiar to Mr. Gorman.

From the Dahlonega, Ga., Mountain Signal. A few days ago some of the hands were en-gaged in cutting a cross ditch and struck an old grave. On examination there was found the skeleton of a full-grown human being, which is doubtless the remains of an Indian of the Cherokee tribe. They also found an earthen pot filled with parched Indian corn, which had undergone but little change. Tra-dition says that food is buried with the body to feed the spirit until it reaches the happy hunting ground. Many other mounds mark the spot, where the body of some weary war rior or the form of some dark-eyed maid has been lain to rest and to listen to the murmur ing waters of the Chestatee, while their spirits wander with the great hunter in the happy hunting ground forever.

An Old Offender.

From the Sandersville, Ga., Herald. A colored warrior that proved to be the notorious Dick Knight, who killed Ed. Pat rick, colored, last year, was seen on the streets last Friday with a double-barrel shot-gun and last Friday with a double-barrel shot-gun and sachel on his shoulder. That night he stole a pocket book and $2 from Lum, a blind colored man. Fortunately for Lum, Knight's gun and sachel were seized, which caused him to stir around and get up the $2 and return to the owner. This graceless fellow was also seen on Friday night with a bottle of whisky. Who that prizes good order and the safety of his family favors allowing such a man that goes loafing around with a gun the chances of purchasing mean, whisky to incite him to purchasing mean whisky to incite him to other crimes and outrages? Is it not like carrying a lighted match into a powder house?

An Unimpeachable Snake Story.

From the Newnan, Ga., Herald, It is my duty, though a little out of my line, to deal in snake tales, but when on comes the truth of which is verified by unimpeachable witnesses, I can't withhold it from the public. Mr. W. Wood, one of my near neighbors, owned a little fice dog which treed a snake. Mrs. Wood went to see what the dog was barking at, when to her astonishment she found the game to be a large snake the coach-whip kind. The little dos taking courage at her appearance, seized it, when the snake coiled its tail around the dog's neck and made its way under a log pulling with such force and grip that it broke the dog's neck. The same day she stumbled upon another large snake. Mr. J. N. Nix was called to her assistance and killed the snake which was six feet in length.

A Chinaman's Marriage in Georgia.

From the Augusta, Ga; Evening News. The rare and advanced idee of a Chinaman changing his nationality and customs and beoming in every way, or we may say in his own oriental and unique way "alle same Melican man" is witnessed in this community. Mr. William Loo Chong, a well known and business like man of Augusta has cut his cue, and to morrow will wed a young Ameri-can girl. The marriage will take place in Burke county. Our neighbor and Mr. Loo Chong's ideal American and esteemed friend, Mr. Plete Blurum, has been invited to go down and stand as best man at the wedding

He Was Brave in a Bee Fight.

From the Newman, Ga., Herald. We hear that "Saluda's" "cousin John" got into a little trouble a few days ago. He un-dertook to hive a swarm of bees and forgot to se up his shirt, and when he jarred the they mistook his bosom for a gum and the whole swarm went in and settled on his body John called Sally (his wife) to come there quick and pull his shirt off gently but hur-riedly, and then wanted her to brush the bees off very tenderly. John kept cool and com-posed all the time while Sally was getting him out of trouble, and then could truly say, "Ain't we brave in a bee fight, Sally?"

MEEKER'S MODEL FARM.

WHAT CAN BE DONE WITH OUR OLD FIELDS.

Land That Cost Over $200 An Acre to Restore-Rais the Price of Cotton By Ginning Properly—
A Hay and Seed Farm and the Dividend
It Declares—Home Manners,

From the Athens, Ga., Banner-Watchman. We do not suppose there is a more beautiful farm in the south than that of Mr. J. A. Meeker, which lies almost within the corpor ate limits of our city. Only a few years ago Mr. Meeker bought a tract of as poor land as we ever saw. Where it had not been washed in gullies, the soil was actually too thin to produce a crop of poverty weeds. It is true that most of this land laid well. but no one had the nerve to cultivate it, although most eligibly located. But when Mr. M. began to put around his purchase a fence worth many times the value of his farm, and took palns to set out hedges and grub up the stumps and pile the rocks, our people looked upon him as little better than a mad man. In fact, "Meeker's folly" was the talk of the city. But Mr. Meeker heeded not these words of discouragement. He was a quiet gentleman, who pursued the even tenor of bis way and continued to send the way and continued to send the way. way, and continued to spend thousands upon his little farm. We will not follow him through the long years it required to bring through the long years it required to bring this barren waste up to a high degree of fertility; but simply add that there is to-day not a more profitable or fertile farm in the state than this. In fact, it is a feast to the eye to look over his broad acres, rich in verdant fields of clover, waving grain and even the much abused staple. Broad avenues wind through his fields, the washes have been stopped and water turned in regular channels, and not a stone or stump is to be seen as far as the eye can reach.

as the eye can reach.

A TOUR OF THE FARM.

Tuesday evening it was our good fortune, together with several gentlemen, to make a tour of this model farm. We found the gen-tlemanly proprietor hard at work in his barn, superintending the ginning of his cotton crop; but before we touch upon this let us first describe the barn and lot. He has a wind-mill in his lot, fed from a never-failing well, that pumps water for all his farm and household purposes. It is forced into a large cistern on the hill near his residence, from which water is not only distributed through that building, but is conveyed to both stories of his barn, while there are troughs in different parts of his lot to water stock and for other purposes. The piping was all put in by Mr. Meeker himself, and works like a char:n. The barn is an immense structure, charm. The barn is an immense structure, with eaves almost touching the ground, ornamented with a handsome cupola for the double purpose of ventilation and beauty. This barn is used for many purposes, as we will enumerate further on. An eight-horse power engine was running just outside the barn to propel the gin. On the ground floor we found a hydraulic press, fed from above, the power to work it being a lever and half barrel of water. It is one of the grandest inventions we ever saw. On this floor Mr. M. ventions we ever saw. On this floor Mr. M. has stored his mowers, horse-rakes and all manner of improved farming machinery not manner of improved farming machinery not in present use. He has revolutionized the southern mode of farming, having introduced successfully all the MODEL APPLIANCES. for expediting work. He has also in this room a wood and blacksmith shop, besides stalls for his horses and eattle. But you see no signs of disorder. There is a place for everything and everything is in its place. On the second floor we found the gin running and hands at work preparing the crop for market. And right here we can preach one of the most interesting sermons on gianing of the most interesting sermons on ginning our cotton planters ever heard. We doubt if there is another such arrangement in the state as this. The crop they were working on that day was storm cotion, and filled with dirt and trash, and if prepared in the usual way we doubt if it would have brought eight way we doubt it it would have brought eight cents a pound in market. The staple was first run through one of Clark's seed cotton cleaners, that not only took out the last particle of dust, trash and motes, but loosened up the lint so as you could gin it much faster and greatly improve the grade. The locks thus prepared were thrown into a self-feeding gin, and passing through a condenser came out as clean and white a lint as we ever saw, not a speck of trash being discernible in it. One hand at trash being discernible in it. One hand at-tended to both the cleaner and gin—and there was no danger of an accident from the saws or machinery, either. Right at hand is the cotton press, into which the lint is thrown and the prettiest bales your eye ever rested upon turned out. Cotton thus prepared brings a much higher price than when ginned by the old plan and the expense is not one cent more. Mr. Meeker had his grain piled around on this floor, which he will thresh as soon as his cotton crop is finished—his thresher taking the place of the gin. His straw is baled in the press and makes excellent food for the cattle, on this farm. He has also a cotton seed mill, for the purpose of either crushing seed for fertilizing purposes or grinding them into meal for his stock, which is about as good a food as corn or oats and a great deal cheaper. But this gentleman's chief dependence is upon his bay crop. He has sixty acres planted in clover, lucerne and grasses and makes immense crops, for which he finds ready sale at profitable prices. In fact, we were told at profitable prices. In fact, we were told that this farm pays its owner ten per cent, on over $200 an acre. He also sells a great many improved seed, shipping them all over the United States. He has the finest cotton, the best wheat, the largest rye and the purest rust-proof oats in the state. He has devoted years to secure the best seeds and improve them, until this branch of his business yields a business yields a You see in his lot large pens of compost, the foundation being tan bark, with which he chiefly manures his fields. He allows nothing to be wasted that can be turned into a fertilizer. You see no tools exposed to the weather hus a most of the terms of the seather hus a most of the terms of the seather hus a most of the weather hus a most of the weather hus a most of the seather hus o posed to the weather, but a mas er's eye watches over everything. His crop of rye was stored in large plank pens, with a movable fire proof roof that accommodated itself to the height of the straw pile. Mr. Meeker's wrest is a laage red variety, and he says the largest average yield he ever made per acre was thirty-five bushels and one peck, and the smallest nineteen bushels. HIS HOUSE.

After inspecting the lot we walked up to the new residence he is having built in his beautiful grove, one of the most elevated sites in the city. This cottage contains ten rooms, all on a single floor, almost surrounded by piazzas, and is one of the most conveniently piazzas, and is one of the most conveniently arranged houses we ever inspected. His grounds, covering a grove of several acres in extent, is set out in every species of tree and shrubbery, both native and imported, that flourishes in this latitude. In a few years this place will be an Arcadia of beauty. The forest extending back from his residence to the limit of his land has not been reglected, but all the undergrowth has been trimmed out, the trees topped, and a wild wood thus transferred into a lovely park. Of course, it required a great deal of time and money to accomplish all this, but the owner is now richly complish all this, but the owner is now richly repaid in possessing an earthly Eden of rural

Washed Out to Sea.

From the Savannah, Ga., News. We learned yesterday morning through a party who came up from Tybee of the proba-ble loss of two men during the storm on Thursday evening. The gale was terrific at Tybee, and the sea was very high. The blow came suddenly, almost like a squall, and a large sloop which was lying near Tybee had great difficulty in making safe water. Some distance from this sloop, and just off Tybee bar, was a yawl boat at anchor. This boat contained James J. Hearn and David Coleman, two young men who are employed as solicitors for sailor boarding houses, and who had gone out to meet incoming vessels and secure their crews as lodgers, as it is not considered pru-dent for seamen to sleep on board their vessels dent for seamen to sleep on board their vessels at the wharves at this season. It is presumed that the men had fallen asleep and did not notice the approach of the storm, and hence made no effort to get out of the way. The gale sprung up so suddenly that ere they were aroused to a realization of their perilous position, their craft was borne out to sea. The men in the sloop shouted to thein in the effort to attract their attention, but without success, and the last they saw of the yawl it success, and the last they saw of the yawl it was almost completely submerged with heavy seas, and was driven rapidly before the wind. Yesterday no trace of the boat could be found, and it is feared the men are lost.

An Expensive Ham.

A suit has just terminated before Justice Elsinger wherein the starboard quarter of a porcine has been the bone of contention, and as the defendant alleges will be carried up for final review before the highest tribunal in the land before he will be fully convinced that his case is not a just and rightful one. It appears that a well known dispenser of bibulous fluids, and one withal who is reputed to lay out the most palatable lunches, had a bill of $1.58 sent him by a grocer, alleging it to be of $1.58 sent him by a grocer, alleging it to be the price of a hem purchased by a colored woman in his employ. As he always accompanied his orders with the money for supplies he refused to pay the bill, and furthermore the mind of his servant could not revert to a recollection of any such transaction, alleging that she was always furnished with money to that she was always furnished with money to make her purchases. The account on the grocer's book, with the testimony of the seller on the particular occasion, seemed all suffi-cient in the mind of the court to warrant a decision against the debtor not only for the ham, but also with court expenses, in all amounting to $7.70, more than the price of the original porker. The defendant cannot conscientiously agree with the court in its rendition of justice, and will take the matter

The Americus Cotton Seed Oil Factory.

From the Americus, Ga., Sumter Republican. All the stock in this company has been taken up, the officers elected, and the president is off for the purpose of purchasing the necessary machinery. The following gentlemen have been selected as officers: President, Thornton Wheatley; Directors, G. W. Glover, J. W. Harper, H. H. Collier, and P. H. Williams; Secretary, Joe Davenport; Treasurer, George Stapleton. The cash capital of the association is twelve thousand dollars with the privilege of raising it to fifty thousand. The site for the factory has not yet been deter-mined, but the company is working with energy and preparing for the successful carry-ing out of their designs as speedily as possi-ble. They are now offering the highest market price for cotton seed, to be delivered to any of the directors. We shall be pleased to chronicle the success of the Americus cotton seed oil factory, for if this meets with popular favor and is of profit to the company, it will be the cause of other enterprises that will be instrumental in building up our town and giving it prominence. and giving it prominence.

A Mad Cow Commits Suicide.

From the Columbus, Ga., Daily Times. Yesterday, about noon, upper Broad and Oglethorpe streets were thrown into a state of excitement by the strange antics of a cow, which gave every indication of madness. It was a fine young animal, belonging to Mrs. Purcell. She was very vicious, fighting other cows, etc.; she ran into a wagon, and, with rolling eyes, kicked up her heels and snorted around generally. Efforts were made to catch her, but they were in vain, and she finally ran into the river, near. Mott's Green, and was drowned. The body was caught near the upper bridge.

Her conduct is inexplicable. Some have advanced the idea that perhaps she was drunk, from eating the seed, and strainings after wine making from blackberries, thrown into the street. How about this we cannot say, but her death entails a heavy loss on Mrs. Purcell.

A WANT FILLED

BY AN ENTERPRISING ATLANTA MANUFACTORY

How Worthless Cotton May Be Made to Bear a Price the Planter to Feel that His Labor Has Not Been in Vain, and an Era of Prosperity be Invoked—Claims of Southern Work.

A striking peculiarity of the manufactures of Atlanta is the facts that those having in view the development of the agricultural interests of the country are largely in the preponderance. As an instance Haiman's plow factory may be taken as one instance. Beginning in an humble way, and only aiming to meet a precarious local demand, the manufacturer suddenly found himself confronted with orders from 1,500 square miles of territory. Winship and Van Winkle both have been compelled to keep a close watch on map and directory, for their orders continually come in from places where a man with the usual local ideas would never dream of. Then there are our wagon and carriage industries, the making of harness, the manufacture of mill machinery and especially machinery connected with the development of the cotton products. To those who are old enough to remember the old method of handling cotton before gins were in the reach of every planter, it is not necessary to repeat the story of the revolution wrought by that machine. Its aid has made millions of that machine. Its aid has made millions of bales possible where before hundreds of thousands would have been surprising; and as the generations pass by the name of Whitney must shine out as one of the landmarks of industrial progress. The first great source of wealth was the soil and climate necessary for the growth of the fibre, but this blessing would have been greatly nullified by the want of the cotton gin, which want it was the happy genius of Whitney to meet.

Great as were the advantages of the gin, however, it has from the first been evident that there was still something lacking benowever, it has from the first been evident that there was still something lacking between the boll on the stalk and the cutton gin. The quantity of high grade cotton was but trifling when compared with the total yield. A shower of rain, so needful for vegetation, was also fraught with injury to the cotton in field, as it stained the fleecy white-mess and lowered its grade. A slight breeze ness and lowered its grade. A slight breeze, so grateful to the heated worker, carried with it fine particles of sand which settled on the bod, and in time clotted the cotton so as to render it as poor in quality as a sheep's coat filled with cockle-burrs. As fresh boils con-tinued to form and mature late in the year, one-third of the crop was at all times found in the field to be destroyed by the beating rains of fall and rendered scarce worth the complaints which attacked the honorable character of the entire farming community of the south—to the effect that sand was put into the cotton for the purpose of increasing its weight. Ten to thirteen cents a pound for Georgia soil was deemed as good real estate speculation. From New York came complaint that much of the product was unmerchantable, it could neither be handled with honor or profit. From the grand stand at the recent cotton exposition in this city it was declared by Mr. Edward Atkinson that "thereleved by Mr. Edward Atkinson the Mr. Edwa clared by Mr. Edward Atkinson that "there is no great staple of the world so wastefully handled and prepared for market as cotton unless it is sugar. If cotton were properly handled in the gin house and properly picked and carried to the gin, all of it that is now-ginned below middling would command from two to five per cent more, because it would be rid of the mote, leaf and dust that level it to a low grade. But more important than this, the greater part of the croup date. than this, the greater part of the crop is deteriorated in value fully ten per cent from the time it is picked in the field to the time when it is turned out from the compress for shipmment north. Nor is this where the work of deterioration ends. A very important and costly part of the work in the northern factories is remedying the errors of pickers. ern factories is remedying the errors of pick-ing, ginning and packing—that is, removing the dirt, sand and grit that has unnecessarily been allowed to get in with the fibre. Beyond the cost of this work the fibre itself suffers from the excessive hauling necessary to clean it of dirt that should never have been allowed The machinery in mills suffers too, because of the failure to clean the cotton before it is compressed into bales, of the almost impalpable sand and dust that infects almost impalpable sand and dust that infects the cotton grown on many soils. Not only can the cotton be cleaned more efficiently before it is packed than afterwards, but with one-third to labor, not to consider that a proper handing of it would keep out the greatest part of the dirt that is found in it when it reaches the mill.

Injured as these speculators, dealers and millers undoubtedly held themselves to be, there was another class beside whom their complaints were as naught—the southern planters themselves. All the year round planters themselves. All the year round they had struggled and toiled, delved into the soil, brought to bear the coaxing influthe soil, brought to bear the coaxing influence of fertilizer as well as hoe, fought the elements in the effort to gather the growth of their labor, wearily brought it to the gin and suffered the depletion of toll, from gin to market to find their one or two bales graded so that the price obtained scarce paid the hired labor, and left the planter with the bag to hold and nothing to run into it.

"Cotton planting don't pay," he mutters to himself. "I will never raise another bale of cotton."

"Cotton planting don't pay," he mutters to himself. "I will never raise another bale of cotton."

But next year finds him at it again, vainly hoping to retrieve last year's failure, with the same experience of yellow cotton and low grade. "I really do not understand it. How is it?"

Ah, there is the question, how is it? Good prices are pa'd for good cotton. Every bale of such handled in Liverpool is well paid for. The man at the blackboard, standing above the din of the operators hears the words: "A bale well mixed with sand!" and off goes several points on the board, and immediately several million dollars drop through a hole in the pocket of the ragged southern breeches. "Lint bruised in the landling!" The man at the blackboard writes, and the southerner puts his finger in his vest pocket only to find that he has lost two millions more. "A bad sample of storm cotton!" Sharpening up his piece of crayon the black board receives a very deliberate inscription and the southern man looking down at his feet finds his toes spraddling out of his brogans like the arms and head out of a Tybee island goopher shell.

Let the southern planter take his pencil and estimate the result if by some means he could sell his entire crop at a higher grade than he now sells it, and he will be astonished at the result. Instead of having ten bales of cotton out of which but one bale stands number 1, the bales number two, three bales number four, if he could so manipulate his crop as to have the entire crop graded at number two, he would no longer have cause for compaint. The price is not the point of attack—it is the grade. This, then, brings us to the main question. The cotton gin facilitates the gathering of a large crop, and is indispensible to the merchants; but a cotton seed cleaner, which raises the grade of the entire crop, and gives it an increased value of from one to three of snipping, and is indispensible to the mer-chants; but a cotton seed cleaner, which raises the grade of the entire crop, and gives it an increased value of from one to three cents a pound, is indispensible to the planter— the man who, of all others, stands most in need of help and sympathy. Greater than the name of Whitney, then; greater than the brain from which originated the ponder ous 40,000 pound jaws of the compress be tween whose crushing weight substance itself seems to disappear, must stand the name of that man who, passing shipper and dealer and ginner, goes straight to the man in the field and says:

"Here is what you want. Here is a ma-chine, the purchase of which is within your reach, the manipulations of which is so simple that it requires no special skill to run it, and the use of which will bring you in market $10 to $15 more a bale for your cotton."

Such a machine as this, meeting every possible requirement of the planter, is now being manufactured in Atlanta, and has received the highest possible indorsements from men of practice as well as from men of theory. The machine was the invention of Mr. Joseph Clarke, of Newman, Georgia, and was been before the public for only two and has been before the public for only two years. Its work was so satisfactory, and thorough that it at once attracted the attention of men who are not in the habit of deal-tion of men who are not in the habit of dealing in doubtful problems, among others, the Inmans of this city. The Clark seed cotton cleaner company, with S.M. Inman as president, was organized, and arrangements were at once made with Joseph H. Johnson for the manufacture of a large number of these machines. The first year 250 were sold. These sales represented a great deal more than such sales usually mean for they were the men of good practical ideas scattered throughgreat deal more than such sales usually mean for they were the men of good practical ideas scattered throughout all parts of the south who appreciated the perils of the situation and whose judgment upon any proposed remedy would carry with it weight. From them the most extraordinary reports have been received, to which we will return hereafter. Up to the present date 916 machines have been sold, with the season of the second year still ahead. One thousand cleáners are now in process of construction to meet this demand, and the material has just been laid in in process of construction to meet this demand, and the material has just been laid in for five hundred more. A cleaner is capable of working off 25 bales a day. Thus one cleaner at work in a neighborhood, cleaning 25 bales a day of 500 pounds each will increase the value in market 2 cents a pound, or $250 for the day. If the cleaner be kept at work for 30 days on this basis the increase of value created by it would run up to $7,500, a figure large enough to make the average farmer pause for breath. This would be the profit over present prices of $7,500 on 750 bales of cotton, made by a machine costing only $100, and whose manipulation adds nothing whatever to the amount of labor that has to be ever to the amount of labor that has to be met with any way. Take $7,500 and distrib-ute it in every community in the south capa-ble of bringing together 750 bales, in addition to the price they will get in market, as prices now range, and it will be readily seen that the prices will give satisfaction to the planter, if the planter's cotton will give satisfaction.

In the recent cotton exposition held in At-lanta, which might be called the southern industrial symposium, the Clarke seed cotton cleaner was one of the most noticeable ob-jects of attention. Mr. Atkinson, whose critrains of fall and rendered scarce worth the labor of picking. The story of the man who advertised for hands to pick blackberries—to receive for payment half the pickings—was reversed on the plantation by the farmer paying half he made on his good cotton for the picking of the queer compound of fibre, sand and clay, which he vainly attempted to pass off on the dasher as execution. It is structure, a southern man had proved himself to be master of the situation, in the which he vainly attempted to pass off on the dealer as cotton.

To clean the cotton then was the great unsolved mystery of the day. From the millers in Stockton, Preston and Manchester came complaints which attacked the honorable of the entire farming the masses of people, of more practical null and the property of the entire farming the masses of people than the people than the people than the production of the people than the production of the people than change in discussing the problem of dirty cotton, when they declared that the only remedy lay in cleaning the staple before it went to the gin. The machinery for that purpose they declared to be the one exhibited at the exhibition—the one which at once turned

Mother and daughter go down together. A lovely maiden leape into eternity! Wives and husbands, sons and daughter are wrecked and lost. Many and hearts are left to mourn the loss. A husband lost his wife and daughter, a young man lost his betrothed.

A contemplation of these horrible "wrecks," work wonderfully upon the mind. The thought makes one feel sad. The strain upon delicate female nerves is too great. A married lady of our acquaintance was so wrought upon mentally that she became low-spirited and sad, lost her appetite, refused food, became feeble and emaciated, nervous and fresful. Her friends insisted that she should not think of these "wrecks" so much, but she inclused that she was sick in reality, and took her bed. She soon had aches and pains, and worked herself into a net-work of female troubles, which eventually ended in chronic female weaknesses and excesses and desth.

Another case in point was that of a young lady. She had lost a friend and soon became melanchely and nervous, could not sleep soundly, her memory began to fail her, she lost all desire for company, her brain lost its brilliancy, her eye its luster, her cheeks became pale, complained of constant headache, and finally fall a victim to a list of female troubles, physterics, palpitations, delirium, consilosns, and death. These cases are of every day occurrence, and these "wrecks" upon female society are fightful. They should be remedied, and there is a remedy within the reach of all, and it is your duty to apply it.

No one need complain, for dr. dromgoole's english female bitters will cure all such. A book is published giving details of all these "wrecks." Send your name to j. p. dromgoole and co., jouisville, ky, and get one free. SHIPWRECK! TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE!!

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 6, 1882

THE signal service bureau report indicates for South Atlantic states .o-day, fair weather, winds mostly northerly, stationary or higher temperature and pressure.

A TEARFUL fact is evident in the naval de bate in congress. The subject is too large for the non-expert and the information possessed by most of the members is infinitessimal. Yet there are two strong influences at work to make members favor a large and powerful navy. One is that the Irish question is not unlikely to involve us in a war with Great Britain if the question becomes more "burning." The other reason is the manifest fact that a puny nation with scarcely more population than New York snaps its finger at us and bids us go hang. This is what practically Chili has done in her diplomatic relations with us. The worst of it is Chili is right to do as she has done.

In another column will be found an ac count of a farm in Athens which will afford a lesson to farmers. It shows how even the worst of Georgia lands can by industry, economy, and science be raised to the highest state of perfection and be made valuable and profitable. Mr. Meeker began with land which was too poor to raise "poverty weeds." This was only a few years ago. "Meeker's folly," his farm was then called when he bought it, Now it pays ten per cent on over $200 an acre. He has done this by using only the most improved model mowers and other farm machinesy; and by saving everything; making his own compost heaps and using the choicest seeds. Such an example for farmers cannot be too highly praised.

THE STRIKES AND COST OF LIVING.

The extensive strikes at the iron centers and at many other populous points are very stubborn. The strikers have scarcely earned enough to maintain themselves and their families, and they are holding out, in many Instances, for offers of higher wages that do not freely come. In some cases their demands have been complied with, and in others they have resumed work at the old rates, but the great majority of the strikers in the iron districts are still contending for increased pay by abstaining in a body from work. The great mills of Pittsburg are still, and mill-ewner and operative alike are losing the profit of activity. This has been going on over a month, and the end is still as indistinct as at the beginning. The men are peacefully disposed, and the mill-owners have about completed their repairs, and it may be that the period of adjustment is at hand. If the iron market improves and the food supply becomes abundant, it is plain the employers and the employed will be able to agree upon terms that will be mutually satisfactory.

As things stand, the strikers cannot be greatly blamed for wanting more wages. President Rogers, of the general trades sembly of the Chicago district, recently published some tables showing that the average increase in the wages of all workers since 1880 does not exceed ten per cent. And yet house rent has advanced 66 per cent, flour 25 per cent, potatoes 153 per cent, meat 80 per cent. butter 50 per cent, milk, 40 per cent, soap 33 per cent and coal 8 per cent. The average increase in the essential articles of hving, has been since 1880 fully 30 per cent.

The per diem worker knows that he is compelled to pay these increased prices, and he knows further that he is powerless to control them. Houses may be scarce because the brick and lumber dealer have formed a combination; wheat may be locked up by speculative parties, and strong men may be manipulating the price of meat; but man at the forge or in the mill knows that he cannot defeat corners or break down combinations, and so he strikes. He forms, in other words, a combination of labor-he zets up a corner in the labor market. 'He wants to recover the ground he has lost since 1880, which amounts in the average to 20 per cent. Ard a reduction of 20 per cent in a large family, the head of which earns only from one dollar to four dollars a day, means a great deal of privation and in thousands of homes of downright suffering. Strikes are often foolish in inception and criminal in execution, but astrike in its worst form cannot well be more reprehensible than the combinations that are daily formed in trade circles to push up articles of living to fictitious values. It is impossible to prevent combinations of either lab r or capital, and while both are daily occurrences it does not become the speculative capitalist to decry the laborer who is contending only for enough to sustain life.

A TREATY WITH COREA.

We call the class in geography. Readers of THE CONSTITUTION who are interested in our foreign relations will please get out their at lases and look for the island of Corea. It is a very nice island, according to all accounts, so that no doubt everybody will be glad to hear that our able government has just concluded a treaty with the authorities of the island. This treaty is couched-(we use the word advisedly)-in the Chinese language. It recognizes the independence of the Corean kingdom, whereupon Corea, on her part, ups and says that she recognizes the greatness-the scope and extent so to speak—of the great North American republic. Indeed, Corea declares that she is so impressed with this unexampled greatness that she is willing to open up to this country important commercial facilities. Formerly Corea was a province of China, but one day there was a dispute between the two countries in regard to the market price of rats performances given in Liverpool amounted to about $5,500. and puppies, and somehow or other Corea managed to slip out of China's hands, and is now under the rule of the king of Honig, whoever he may be. It is said that the country is very rich in minerals and the precious metals. The natives lean heavily in the direction of all that is genuinely Mongolian so far as their complexion and habits are concerned, and they are said to be fond o worshipping the little wooden gods so popular in China, and which are said to be kept in the family tea chest. Why this should be so, will probably never be known, for it is not generally conceded in theological circles that the little Chinese gods are effica ious after they have crossed water.

Very little is really known in regard to Co rea, and the conclusion of the treaty may be said to be a considerable commercial victory for the United States. The Coreans have heretofore maintained a policy of strict isolation, even toward China, and no one has had an opportunity to learn much about them The population of the country is variously estimated at from five to twenty millions The treaty provides that "Coreans-may live at their option throughout America, rent or purchase tenements and houses, open shops, and may deal in any production, article of manufacture and non-prohibited commodity." Our readers will observe that we are giving them this quotation straight and warm from the Chinese dialect, such as is found on the red labels with which all genuine fire-crackers are branded. The privileges thus accorded to Coreans in this country are also accorded to Americans in Corea, and in a few years that devoted region will be over run with native North American carpet-baggers.

It might be supposed that these clauses in the treaty would reopen the door to Chinese immigration, but the difficulty in the way is that the Coreans do not understand the Chinese language, so that there would be no difficulty in detecting imposters. It is impossible to say precisely what commercial advantages may result from this treaty with Corea, but the fact that it has been concluded is an evidence of the good impression that prevails among these lonely rat-eaters in regard to the union of our fathers. It is certainly time, since old Mr. Whatshishuysen has allowed the United States to lose its prestige in South America, which ought to be tributary to this country, that we were looking around for business among some unfortunates who are unable to protect themselves Under all the circumstances, we certainly wish Corea well.

It will then be seen that Colonel Black will be a candidate for re-nomination, provided that when the convention assembles he shall be in such an improved state of health as will justify the hope of if not entire restoration, at least of sufficient health and activity to enable him to satisfactorily discharge such duties as may be required of him, should he recover to this extent the people of the district who sympathize with him deeply in his affliction, and appreciate the zeal which he displayed before his paralytic attack in watching over their interests in the federal legislature, would, we believe, gladly send him back again as their representative. But it cannot be denied that the contingency upon which Colonel Black's candidacy rests is a serious one, and at present it is impossible to forcetell whether or not he will be able to appear before the convention. Whoever is nominated will have to make an active canvass of the district, and besides must be able to give a guarantee to the people that he will be thoroughly competent, mentally and physically, to look after the welfare of his constituents. If, on the 6th of September next, Colonel B ack can give satisfactory assurances of ability in these respects, he will now a probably be the choice of the convenion; if the end of september next. was passed unanimously by a rising vote:

Resolved, by the democracy of Morgan county in mass meeting assembled: That we renew our expressions of approbation of the course of our distinguished senator, B. H. Hill, in the councils of the nation and our abiding confidence in his fidelity and patriotism as a public servant. When Georgia was enshrouded in mourning, gloom and poverity, and it seemed that there was no hand to save, we cherish with pride and, gratitude the heroism and patriotism with which he planted himself in the pass and with the tongue of a Demosthenes and the pen of a Junius aroused the beople from their deep ndfing lettnary and drove back the horde of sordid and mercenary vendals who had desecrated her temple of liberty. It is with feelings of profound sadness that we realize that that tongue, upon which "the ears of listening-senates" bent is for the nonce, alas! perhaps forever hushed. We tender him, in this his sore hour of affliction our neartfelt sympathy, and haps forever bushed. We tender him, in this, his sore hour of siff ction; our neartfelt sympathy, and we express our admiration of his heroic fortitude and patient endurance under a torturing malady with the earnest desire that he may be restored to his family and country, and that the sena e cham her may again resound with his pungent satire, his singing phuillipies and his matchless eloquence, against the assaults of corrupt venal and intriguing

RICH DISCOVERIES IN GEORGIA. Wonderful New Sort of Cotton-An Immense Silver

Special Correspondence New York sun. ATLANTA, June 30 .- Attention is now attracted o a new sort of cotton plant which bids fair to prove immensely valuable. For many years Mr. A. A. Subers, of Macon, has been carefully experimenting to hybridize the cotton plant that grows wild in Florida with the common okra. The cotton plant used is of that species which is found on the lowlands of the Caloosahatchie river. The new plant retains the okra stalk and the foliage of the otton. Its flower and fruit, however, is strikingly unlike either cotton or okra. The plant has an average height of two feet, and each plant has only ne bloom. This is a magnificent flower, very much like the great magnolis in fragrance and equally as like the great magnolis in fragrance and equally as large. Live the cotton bloom, the flower is white for several days after it opens, after which it spale pink, and gradually assumes darker shades of this until it becomes red, when it drops, disclosing a wonderful boll. For about ten days this boll resembles the cotton boll, and then its growth sud denly increases as if by magic until it finally reaches the size of a big cocoanut. Not until it reaches this size does the lint appear. Then its snowy threads begin to burst from the boll, but are held securely in place by the okra-like thorns or points that line the boll.

show threats begin to burst from the both, but are held securely in place by the okra-like thorns or points that line the boil.

One inexperienced picker can easily gather 800 pounds a day, and ast hands much more. Were the only saving that of labor in gathering the lint, the result of Mr. Suber's experiment would entitle mit to the lasting gratitude of the southern farmer. But this is not all—there are no seeds in the lint. Each boil produces about two pounds of very fine long staple cotton, superior to the sea island, and at the bottom of the boil there are from four to six seeds, resembling persimmon seed. This new cotton, therefore, needs no ginning.

Our earliest settlers used to hear strange and marvelous stories from the 1 idians of a wondefful silver mine on the Chatorga river, in Cherokee county, a labama. The Indians would exhibit roughly carved ornaments of silver that they said were made of ore taken from this mine in sol'd blocks. They could not be induced to point out the locality of the mine, and few believed their story. Several years ago Colonel James Callen heard that the Indians said the mine an through his farm, and he has spent much time, labor and money in a vain search for it. These facts came to the notice of Colonel Alfred Shorter, of Rome, who sent to the Indian nation for an Indian named Holland, who knew about the mine and sis locality. The first in the locality of the mine and said it was a vein three feet in diameter and several miles in length. At the lowest computation it is said to be worth ten million dollars.

THE JULY HEAVENS.

The Only Month of the Year with Two Full Meons— The Stars.

July records the advent of two full moons, the sole month in the year honored with that distinc-tion. The moon fulls on the 1st and again on the 30th. On the 10th the waning moon passes near Neptune and Saturn. On the 12th she forms with Jupiter a lovely picture, waning crescent and brilliant planet being only a degree and a quarter On the 18th the three days old moon is near Venus, and on the 19th near Mars and Uranus, The moon just now is an important member of the solar family. Something new may be anticipated in her monotonous story. The observers of the recent solar cellpse detected intimations of an atmosphere on her apparently lifeless surface. This seems to confirm indirations of movement that have never been accounted for, and scarcely credited in scientific quarters. Two days after the cellpse, an observer of forty years experience, while ited in scientific quarters. Two days after the celipse, an observer of forty years experience, while looking at the moon, saw a cloud one hundred miles long and forty or fifty miles broad, hovering over the "Mare Cristum." presenting a misty, feathery appearance, unmistakably differe, t from other portions of the moon's disc. If this appearance was a reality and not an optical filusion, other observers will be sure to detect something similar.

Thus July furnishes abundant material for astronomical study and enjoyment. Two full moons will lead their silvery light to add beauty to the summer evenings. The four morning stars, Neptune, Saturn, Jupiter and Mercury, will sing to gether as they move in rhythical harmony around the central source of life and light. The three evening stars, Vehus, Mars and Uranus, hanging close together, will fulfill their course, the p erless Venus religning supreme over her brother planets and the grand concourse of attendant stars. The neverfalling variety that characterizes the study of astronomy finds ample illustration in three suggestive topics that demand the close attention of the student of the stars. The coming transit of Venus manks first in importance, as the busy notes of preparation are re-echo from every part of the civilized world, and the enthusiasm increases as the grand event draws near. The Martian markings, and the more recent observation of the duplication of the so-called canals by progressive lines, seen by the keen-eyed Schiaparelli, under the series ky of Milan, form a theme for study of fabulous interest. In the third place the moon comes in for her share in the note cleestial problems that ous interest. In the third place the mean comes in for her share in the novel celestial problems that the delight of the scientific mind. Indications are the delight of the scientific mind. Indications of an atmosphere, observed by the French astrongmers and a misty, feathery cloud floating over one of her hinge craters, revige the interest in her desolate face, and suggest the possibility that life may exist in some form in a world that seems to have played her part in the material economy of the

A dispatch to the Times from Paris says the conference will probably come to a decision to-day to formally request the porte's intervention in Egypt. The principle of collective action has been already resolved on. If the porterfuses to consent to the proposed condition, if its execution becomes necessary, it is probable that the several powers will participate, but the share of England will be greater than that of any other power. It is stated that the conference to day resolved to address a collective note to the porte dealing with the question of intervention for Exypt. The Daily News, in a leading article, foreshadows English armed intervention in Egypt, and says if such, action is necessary it would be pennywise to count the loss, which the News estimates at £4 000,000 stel. 150,000 stel. ling. the Cause.
CINCINNATI, July 5.-Jacob Wagner shot and killed his wife. Theresa, about 6 o'clock this evening, at their residence in Camp Washington, in the northwest part of the city, and then shot himself. Mrs. Wagner was instantly killed, being shot in the right check and the ball entering her brain. Wagner shot himself in the right temple, and was alive at 9 p.m., but cannot live. I chanced to-night on a faded flower, A rosebud with leaves turned brown, And strive as I would I had not power To keep the teardrops down.

When the world was bright and fair, When the rosy light of first love bri Shed beauty everywhere There rose before me a pure, pale face,

There came a memory of long ago.

That rippled and waved with careless grace O'er a forehead wondrous fair. I felt the glance of two soft, dark eyes, Whose dreamy, dusky glow

Enchained my heart with a subtle thrail And would not let it go. A dimpled hand lay on my arm, With pearly palm outspread,

And between the dainty fingers Was a rosebud glowing red. Two ripe lips rarted; I felt her breath As it fanned my glowing cheek, And I heard the sound of her silvery voice

As she turned to me to speak. "May my love be as deep, and as pure and true As this flower's crimson breast: Keep it an emblem of the love Of the one who loves you best."

Ah, the tears are gone, and the vision past. And my eyes behold instead A lonely grave on he hillside green, With a rosebush at its head.

THE NAUSEATED PUBLIC Special Distracts to The Constitu

SICK OF GUITEAU AND THE LONG SESSION.

gress Braving the Heated Term-Blount's Victory, Over Robeson-Phe Fourth of July-The News From North Carolina-Senator Brown's Health - Presidential Prospe

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. Washington, July 2.—I am worn and Special Dispatch to The Constitution. weary of Guiteau and all that pertains to him and his doom. Washingt on has literally reeked with this ghastly sensation for a week past. All our newsboys are hourse with yelling out its horrid details. It has contaminated the current of coramon social talk. The pulpits to-day were full of it. The newspapers have come laden with the mournful burden. Wise and ignorant, great and low, young and Wise and ignorant, great and low, young and old, have discussed and dissected the wretch and the wad nauseam" point has been distanced. But congress is hardly a brighter theme. It moves with a slowness more compatible with dignity than the common ideas of business. Judge Reagan, an excellent authority on legislative time, said to-day the 24th would find us here. One day was lost by the sad death of Mr. Hawk, of Illinois, a gallant soldier who left a leg on some bloody field, and had just been reassured that the boys meant to keep him in congress another term. Yesterday the naval appropriation bill created some stir in the house, where the sad spectacle of old Robeson directing it was presented. directing it was presented.

A neater victory is not often won than that Mr Blount achieved in defeating one of Robeson's pet clauses. It provided that all promotions to rear admiralties should come through a commission appointed by the president and secretary of the navy. Mr. Blount made two short speeches against that scheme, and held it up in its nakedness as a political trick that would crush all genuine spirit in the navy. Robeson appealed for it in vain, and the committee of the whole went with the Georgian by nine majority. Few men in congress could have done that work. THE FOURTH AND KEIFER.

We are all getting ready for the Fourth here when another day will drop out of the work calendar and the weary statesmen will hie to the various neighboring resorts to cool and reflect on the situation. Many of them are getting nervous about matters at home and are anxious to get there and roll a fog or two. A sad thing is it to think of how many a good fellow will come back here next Dea good fellow will come back here next December with his invitation to stay at home thereafter written out in due form by an ungrateful constituency. I am afraid to believe the good news that Keifer's renomination is doubtful. Perry Belmont, I hear, made capital-out of his row with Blaine and will come back from New York with a whizzing majority. I see your cold blooded paragrapher occasionally shoots one of his keendarts at Perry, but he is a good fellow nevertheless, and has made a faithful member of congress. Olin Wellborn is getting trouble congress. Qlin Wellborn is getting trouble from a friend in his own county in Texas, but I have faith in Atlanta push even after so long a transplantation.

DEMOCRATIC FEARS.

It is one of the fears of the democracy here that they will lose North Carolina through the blunders of party management there. Senator Ranson's senatorial prospects are in the scale. If the state coas scale. If the state goes right he will find no trouble in coming back as he is an excellent politician and personally very popular. Zeb Vance is good to rack around the senate two more years after next March and then come back for another term, for Vance always runs ahead of his ticket.

SENATOR BROWN'S HEALTH.

Senator Brown went, with Mrs. Brown and Miss Brown, down to Fahrquar Springs, Friday, for two or three days of rest, which he needed very much. He will be back to-morrow. He is much stronger and better than he was when he returned from Atlanta Dr. Wales has recently thoroughly examined his lungs, and says the air circulates through every part of them. The danger of tubercolosis is not threatened now. But the senator's health is not robust and he has to take scrupulous care of himself. He works along with his usual steam engine energy, and is son with his usual steam engine energy, and is on hand in the senate in the same old style of fitting every occasion with a wonderful apti Conkling looked shy when he was over here the other day, considering the fact that he owns a big brass band new medal. He rode down the avenue in a one-horse coupee and would not allow Arthur to show him around town, as I am sure he wanted to. He came quietly and slipped back to New York in the same way. He is a strange compound. the same way. He is a strange compound, used to take back streets to the capitol, and if seen on the busy thoroughfares at all was generally with Mr. Eaton, the good old. Connecticut democrat, his best friend and warmest admirer in the senate Conkling never drank among men socially, but Eaton often did, and sometimes the princely New Yorker would even accompany his friend to the bar. They say Conkling's practice will be worth $100,000 to him this year, and will be kept at enormous figures as long as he remains out of politics. long as he remains out of politics. Cornell has gone back on him but Arthur remains true, auxious to gain his aid in capturing the next presidential nomination.

THE PRESIDENTIAL GANDIDATES.

I may add that the belief is gaining ground every day that Arthur will be the nominee of his party. Blaine stock is falling and there is no other man with a boom visible to the naked eye. Windom can count on only the marred relies of a dark horse fame while John Sherman is fading even dimmer than that.

Just now Chester Arthur is running the republican party and Conkling is his right bower. A democratic victory in Penn-sylvania would embarrass the administration and raise the grade of the half breed wing, but at present stalwartism rides on the crest of the hour. The capture of Tennessee or North Carolina would counteract the depressing effect of the loss of Pennsylvania on Arthur's popularity. His great aim has been to split the south, and he would gladly swap off a state or two in the north for a southern con-vert. The democrats have a delightful situation. They have simply to watch their oppo-nents and make capital out of all their errors. But the democrats have a faculty of making errors themselves with a provoking frequency.

ATKINS WILL NEVER "BENCH." His Incompetence Will Be Recognized by the Senate

His Cureer as Collector. Special Dispatch to The Constitution. WASHINGTON, July 5 .- James Atkins will not be confirmed as judge of the northern district of Geor-gia. The senate will refuse to confirm him on the gia. The senate will refuse to confirm him on the ground that he is incompetent, and on the ground that he was a defaulter as collector at Savannah. Two acts of congress were passed granting him rehef, and recently a deficit of overnine thousand dollars charged against him in the treasury, was compromised by retaining $2.700 due him as collector's salary, and retained because of default. The democrats are solid against the confirmation, and several republicans will vote with them. Sherman, Windom and Van Wyck i think may surely be counted on publicans will vote with them. Sherman, windom and Van Wyck, I think, may surely be counted on, with the chance for others. As I wired you on Monday night, atkins will find that the zeal of his friends has been a mistaken kindness. The best thing that could happen for him would be the withdrawal of his name to-morrow.

A New Assistant Secretary of State Washington, July 5.-Mr. John Davis, whose nomination as assistant secretary of state was sent to the senate to-day, is the son-in-law of secretary Frelinghuysen, and the nephew of Mr. J. He was afterward appointed by Secretary Evaria assistant counsel for the United States on the French and American claims commission. He is a lawyer, and is said to be well qualified by ability, attainments, and diplomatic experience for his new place. A Mexican Railroad.

The work on this road will be abandoned until the assembling of the next legislature, to which Count Telfener, president and manager looks for a reversal of the action of the last legislature, which virtually repu-diated its promise of land certificates, amounting to sixteen sections per mile for each mile of road

Tennessee's Cotton Crop.

At Butt's Court.

Justice Butt yesterday had Floyd Hobbs up for a preliminary trial on a charge of burglary. He was acquitted of that charge but will be tried to-day at ten o'clock, on a warrant charging him with assault with intent to mur-der. Isaac Hill will be tried at four o'clock on a similar charge.

The Shields Case.

The motion for new trial in the Shield's murder case was not heard yesterday. It was postponed until Saturday when it will be argued. There is considerable interest mani-fested in the case and many expressions of opinion have been made in reference to the verdict.

Burglarizing a Store. Shortly after dark last night a thief entered Mrs. Sampson's grocery store, on Pratt street, and stole quite a quantity of meat and flour. An entrance was made by breaking a window glass in the rear of the building, and through this hole the fastening was reached and the ### Roads and Revenues.

The commissioners of roads and revenues met yesterday and transacted the usual rout-ine work of auditing accounts. The election of a member to fulfill the place made vacant by the death of Judge Howell, will not take place until the return of Mr. Hunnicutt, who is new absent from the city.

Fire Alarm.

The ringing of the fire bells about 8 o'clock last night brought the paid fire department out for the first time and their response was quick. The alarm was caused by the explouick. The alarm was caused by the exploion of a lamp in the Powell building on Peachtree street, but the blaze was extinshed before the firemen reached the place.

An Application for Injunction.

Yesterday an application was filed in the superior court by Colonel L. P. Grant and others to restrain the city from dumping night soil on the stockade lot. The dumpings are put in trenches on the city's stockage property, and the citizens who reside in that local ity are appealing to the law for protection. The plaintiffs are represented by Colonel W. L. Calhoun and Mr. E. N. Broyles. The case will come up on the 21st before Judge Hillyer.

Death of an Aged Colored Woman. America Steele, an aged colored woman who was known by nearly every Atlantian, died yesterday morning at her home on fictoria street. "Aunt Merika," as every ody called her, was born in Augusta, Ga., in 810. She was a slave and until after the war was a home servant of her master, Mr. Z. Fitzpatrick. Soon after the war she went to Fitzpatrick. Soon after the war she went to Cario, Ill., where she remained a short while, when she came to Atlanta. She was a kind arted Christian and was greatly liked by

The Fourth of July.

The smoke has passed away and the committee of arrangements is now clearing up the debris. The amount subscribed by the citizens was considerably more than was spent, and quite a little sum is in the hands of the committee. The one hundred dollars intended for the fantastic parede is included in this "balance on hand," The committee is now making a full report of expenses, which will be printed. They will make a proper disposibe printed. They will make a proper disposi-tion of the balance, probably giving it to one of the hospitals or the Y. M. L. A., or they will do whatever subscribers desire with it.

A Lively Case.

The city court is trying an interesting case. Among the residents of Fulton is a Mrs. Mary E. Landis, who has a son-in-law named A. F. Sanner. Mrs. Landis, it appears, took a chain one day and proceeded to strap Mrs. Sanner, and hence she appears to answer a charge of assault and battery. It seems that the Landis family and the Sanners have a ra her warm time of it, and according to the testimony of Mrs. Sanner they have been, for eighteen months, living amid internal strife and civil war. The case will probably occupy all of tohe was greatly astonished at finding a white han inside sound asleep. After several efforts the boy succeeded in waking the sleeper, when he asked: "What station is this?" To the query the boy replied by telling the chicken coop occupant that he was in Atlanta, and invited hat the man's home is in West Point, and that he came to Atlanta to spend the Fourth. During the day he became gloriously drunk, and after dark crawled into the chicken coop where he spent the night.

Yesterday morning was as cool as September, and as Oscar Wilde boarded the Georgia railroad train, he was enveloped in his esthetic cloth cloak with its figured silk lining. He also wore his broad-brimmed white hat, and as he pulled it closer down over his ears, he repeated.

as he pulled it closer down over his ears, he remarked:
"One of the things that I liked most in the west was the broad-brimmed hats, and cloaks too. The cloak is the most perfect form of drapery ever invented. It never can be ungraceful. I hope, in time, to see it far more generally worn than at present."

The City Court. In the city court yesterday, Judge Richard H. #### Oscar Wilde's Valet.

Night before last, when Oscar Wilde's agent appeared at the union ticket office, he asked for three first-class tickets to Savannah and for three first-class tickets to Savannah and for three sleeping-car tickets. After Mr. Thweatt had supplied the agent's demands the agent stated that one set of the tickets was intended for Mr. Wilde's valet, a colored man. Mr. Thweatt informed the agent that it was against the rules of the company to sell sleeping-car tickets to colored persons, and requested the return of the ticket, promising to refund the money, but the agent declined to do as requested. Mr. Thweatt then went into the sleeping car where Mr. Wilde and his servant were and stated the case to them, but they both declined to change the programme they had marked out. Mr. Wilde said that he had never been interfered with before, and they had marked out. Mr. Wilde said that he had never been interfered with before, and persisted in having his darkey retain his sleeping car ticket. Seeing all argument useless, Mr. Thweatt approached Steve Henderson, the porter of the sleeping car, and soliciting his aid, posted him. Steve then went to Mr. Wilde's valet and told him that the train would go through Longshore the train would go through Jonesboro, and if the people saw a negro in the sleeper they would mob him. This had more effect than all of Mr. Thweatt's talk, and in a few

We would have completed the road sooner but for the rains. The last spike will be driven at about one to day—nine miles from the city."

THE SPRING CHICKEN,

And How He Disputed the Place of Honor With King Cotton.

A hen laid an egg. From the egg a chicken was hatched. These statements look very commonplace at first sight, bu; beneath the surface there was a great deal concealed—that is, under the surface of the chicken so lately hatched, there were twelve eggs, and from these twelve eggs were twelve eggs, and from these twelve eggs a whole colony of young cacklers grew. And yet again the process of generations was repeated, until the front yard was alive with them, out in the fields they were to be found in every direction, so numerous did they become in the woods that a worm did not dare to show its head. Where Brahma and Cochin and Lephorn came from it was bard to tell. and Leghorn came from it was kard to tell. No one around the farm remembered having paid anything for them, no one had ever given them an hour's attention; only one thing was

The cotton was sold and the bills were paid, and a lien had to be given on next year's crop for provisions; but 'Tilda stepped in and said the lien could be dispensed with, as she had found out that eggs had a value and spring found out that eggs had a value and spring chickens was appreciated in the city. The depletions in the cakkling ranks made many comforts but the places were readity filled by others, and all without the intervention o the grano agent. The farmer pondered and studied, and at last 'allowed' that there was more money in many other things than there was in cotton.
